KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy-If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tublets

The secret of keeping young is to feel toung—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no beed of having a sallow complexion—dark rings having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your ecc.—pimp es—t bilious leok in your fice—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your dector will tell you ninety per cent of all rickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwinds, a well known physician in Ohlo perfected a vigetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels which he gave to his attents for years.

You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham will cut down the cost of your smoking.

How is it possible to give you quality at the low cost of 10 cents for 50 cigarettes?

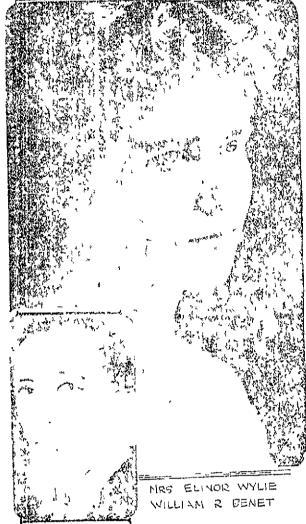

ANSWER: The government tax alone on 50 machine-made cigarettes is 15 cents—5 CENTS MORE THAN THE COST OF 50 "BULL" DURHAM CIGARETTES TO YOU!

The average smoker saves $1 to $1.50 a week by "rolling his own" from "Bull"—or from $52 to $78 a year. This makes quite a Christmas fund—or pays for a fine trip.

This is the third of a scries of advertise. ments by The Atlantic Refining Company on the TRUTH ABOUT GASOLINE.

Our Profit on Gasoline is less than one cent a gallon

TAVE you ever wondered, as the gasoline gurgled into your tank, how much of your money went to the refining company in profit?

We will tell you what the prof. is on Atlantic Gaso-. line. It is exactly 9467 ten thousandths of a, cent per gallon. This figure is the history of the past eleven years. It was arrived at by dividing the whole net profits of the Company for that long period by all the gallons of gasoline and other products sold.

Less than a cent per gallon! On an average year's consumption of 300 gallons (the average requirement for 5,000 miles), less than three dollars! Compare this with the profit on any other commodity of which you have

You and your fellow motorists pay us this profit of less than a cent a gallon--or less than a nickel on a five-gallon

For going out into the oil fields and in competition with some 450 other refiners producing or buying to the best advantage enough crude petroleum to take care of

For investing more than a hundred millions of dollars In refining equipment, maintaining an organization of over 9,700 employes, devising scientific ways and means for economically extracting the greatest amount of good gasoline from every barrel of crude oil;

For finding an outlet market for the many other products of the crude petroleum so the price of gasoline may be kept down to the minimum;

For carrying sufficient stocks of gasoline to provide for all emergencies, and especially for the seasons when consumption exceeds production;

For maintaining a wholesale distributing systemwarehouses, storage tanks, tank trucks, etc.- that will assure the delivery of gasoline where you can conveniently get it any time you need it.

For this service—so perfectly organized that you are scarcely aware of the intricacies behind it-we receive, on an invested capital of over a hundred million dollars, a profit of less than a cent a gallon. Is it too much?

Mrs. Redmond's Shame

"When is Mrs. Redmond coming down?" he asked. Harriet Lapp's air did not alter.

"She ain't," she answered, and Red-

It was rarely, if ever, now, in these later years that Mrs. Redmond confided in the man she'd married. Bemarital situation had become reversed -he, not she, the dependent; she the master hand. The change, however, if such had happened, was not just equitable; for Redmand, if he were the inforior, hent under what virtual-Is was a double responsibility, that of the provider, the one who brought in the tiving; with that, he, to all intents and purposes, ran the bousehold as well. Of that never mind, however, With all the other calls on Mrs. Refmond those might have been no housestepped into the breach. He had not complained. Overshadowed by his wife, submerged in her growing promi-bence, the added task John Redmand himself had become submerged, thrust inconspicuously into the background of thelr married life. Wonder still reigned among his thoughts; and, in their confusion, his mind temped with a quick informality from one rhought to another. It is the way with those who mult things over, solitaries. Something was wrong, wrong with Myrth [Edmont, and hid grand dwell on that] Redmond; and his mind ewelt on that;

Redmond; and his mind dwelt on that:

somethiar wrong with Myric

With Myria, yes, not just Mro. Redmond. You understand, no doubt. In other words, there were in Redmond's mind two figures, always two: Myria, first; thorn—well, the other, Mrs. Redmond. The two were vivally distinct. Myria, the one he'd married, had (to him) never changed; she still was the one, the same; but the other, the Mes. one, the same; but the other, the Mrs. Reduced who'd taken his name, still was using it—she and Reduced were far apart. It was only at old intervals now, brief and far apart, that the Myrra he'd married came back to him.

A "mere" husband, an appendage.

gere Mrs. Redmond's dalle pabulus

Had she done something? Had she compromised herself? Unwitting had she let herself into something ugly? Vague stories, sinister whispers of polities, public affairs, tenped into his re-membrance. Her ambitions he knew. He knew, too, that she-that is, Mrs Redmond—would make no distinction in methods. "In politics no sex" was the watchword of these women, Mrs. Redmond's associates, here as well. They fought with the same tools as the men. But if Myrta....

Myrta again—Myrta not Mrs. Red-mond. An exchanation, sharp, ex-plosive, escuped him. Shoving back his chair he rose abruptly.

Harriet Lipp, as if her eye had been glued to the crack in the pantry door, at once showed it open.

"Say, you ain't et y'r breakfus'!"

she barked.
Redmond had flung down his napidn on the cloth. He looked at the figure in the doorway.

"What did your mistress say?" he Hyrriet Lipp's eyes narrowed defensively,

"Say when?" she countered,
"This morning—just now!" rapped
Redmond, his temper rising, "Is she ill?" he snapped again.
"No, she din't!" the woman swered. "Then why lan't she coming down?" asked Redmond. With direct finality the weman answered him. "She's a-b bod," said Harriet Lipp. That ended it. "She's a-breakfustin'
